ADELE Project Goals

➢ To design and test a web-based tool, in order to help library organisations reflect on:
  ● How they currently use digital technologies?
  ● Where they can further integrate them to improve their services?

➢ To support the use of digital technology in non-formal adult education through the development of digital competences
ADELE Activities

• Development and large-scale testing of the ADELE tool with the library sector

• Training activities for library staff participants

• Supporting adults in non-formal education on digital competences

• Multiplier events
ADELE Project Target Groups

- Library Managers
- Library Staff
- Adult learners
- Local communities on a larger scale
ADELE Tool

A free customisable web-based tool

The ADELE tool builds on the SELFIE tool for schools developed by the European Commission.

The tool will help non-formal education organisations be digitally ready and forward-looking.
Stages in the Development of the ADELE Tool

1. In-depth analysis of the SELFIE tool and adaptation to the library field
2. Conceptual design of the ADELE questionnaire
3. Technical development
4. Creation of an international network of 100 libraries
5. Questionnaires and focus groups to gather feedback and validation
6. Internal and large-scale testing
7. Feedback, integration and official launch of the ADELE tool
